Manned Guarding

The background of the slide features a blue-tinted image of a modern office interior. In the foreground, several people are silhouetted against a large window. They appear to be in a meeting, with some sitting at a table and others standing. The window looks out onto a dense city skyline with numerous skyscrapers under a clear sky. The overall atmosphere is professional and secure.

There is no greater deterrent for would-be criminals than the physical presence of a highly-trained security guard; that is why manned guarding services are often at the core of any effective security solution. Whether you are looking to protect your home or complex of apartments, place of work, school or college, assets, colleagues, family or yourself, there is no greater peace of mind than having manned guarding security.

Knowing that trusted professionals are working tirelessly to anticipate, prevent and manage any potential threats that may occur will leave you feeling safe and secure. RESIDENTIAL & GATED SECURITY

As a UK homeowner or resident of a high-value property, you may be under particular threat from would-be vandals, burglars, or intruders. If you have a family residing at the address, it can be an additional worry and avoiding a break-in, especially with family at home, would be of paramount importance.

Our protection services are tailored according to the individual needs of our clients: we take time to understand the level of involvement and expectations required. What is more, our professional and experienced security guards are always effective and discreet, providing unrivalled private residential security protection from potential security threats.

CONSTRUCTION SECURITY

With the presence of expensive materials and machinery, construction and industrial sites are regarded as extremely high-value targets. Having a construction security plan in place will enable companies to tackle loss prevention by way of expensive repairs, parts, costly machinery, and raw materials.

Along with safety concerns for staff and the expected consequent delays that will impact on construction progress, it is wise for companies to partner with a competent security firm to ensure the absolute protection of their assets, people and premises. Furthermore, the presence of a professional construction security team will often drive down any insurance premiums: something that's certainly worth investigating.

As high and ultra-high-net-worth individuals, celebrities, diplomats, and public figures, who are either living in London or visiting from abroad, the potential for real threats to your safety can cause stress and anxiety. The likelihood of you or those around you receiving unwanted attention can often be unpredictable and difficult to manage. In today's climate, close protection services are an increasingly necessary security measure for such individuals seeking peace of mind when they are going about their day.

Our premium close protection services are personalized according to your individual needs. We carry out an initial risk assessment, taking the time to understand the level of involvement that is required, before expertly planning bespoke protocol and procedures to account for every eventuality imaginable, both at home and in public. It's through this careful planning and attention to detail that we can expertly identify the level of VIP protection you'll need to go about your day, and night.

Hospitality Security:

Security in the hospitality industry is becoming increasingly crucial. At locations such as hotels and restaurants, for example, the safety and security of guests, employees and assets is one of the most critical components of a business' operation. It is important to promote a concern for customer safety in particular, by way of employing visible security measures using hospitality personnel services.

This, in turn, demonstrates to your customers that your premises are somewhere in which they can feel safe and where the management cares about their well-being, which consequently generates repeat custom for your business.

SCHOOL SECURITY

Schools, colleges, and universities face a great number of external and internal threats, which can be a worry for not only those on-site but for parents, families, and the wider community. Whether it be the threat of intrusion, violence or the potential to bring illegal substances or other banned items on-site, to name a few examples, it is certain that without a well-coordinated school security presence there will always be the potential for harm to come to some of society's most vulnerable people.

It is, therefore, becoming increasingly common that educational establishments seek help in the form of professional school security services when protecting their site and, most importantly, safeguarding the young people who visit it daily.
